Key words: From national recovery to national growth", the state language, communication, "Mirror of language-nation", "Mirror of language-spirituality", "Invaluable language-nation wealth".

Introduction

Today our Uzbekistan says "From national revival to national rise". to a new, higher stage of development based on the main principle rising. Large-scale reforms implemented in our country in the process, the role and influence of the state language in our life is increasing more and more. The Uzbek language is active in political-legal, social-economic, spiritual-educational aspects. is being used and is being played on international platforms.[1] In foreign countries attention to our language and interest in learning it is growing. In today's era of globalization, every nation, every independent state is its own nation to ensure their interests, in this regard, first of all, their own culture, ancient values, priority should be given to the preservation and development of the mother tongue is natural. On October 21, 2019, the head of our state said, "The state of the Uzbek language on the measures to fundamentally increase its prestige and status as a language". It is not wrong to say that the decree was a historical event in the history of the nation. Because on the basis of this decree, the problems that have accumulated for many years are being solved, every year in October, it is said by experts with a smile, and then proposals and recommendations left on paper are taken into consideration by the government rekindled the dying sparks of hope.[2]

Main body

President series on increasing the status of the Uzbek language as a state language setting tasks is a high example of respect for our language. As attention is being paid to our language on the basis of a special decree at the state level, increasing its authority, place, reputation in society, determining its legal status, What should be done to bring it to the level of a literal state language? That is the question of how the state language should be protected is a question for many people It's natural to think. For this, first of all, our language is comprehensive we will have to protect it by means of a well-crafted law. To sum up, love the language, honor it, love the nation and it is equal to appreciation.[3] The way of life, customs of any nation, culture is expressed in its language. It is not for nothing that language is the mirror of the nation not mentioned. The rich history of our people, ancient and colorful culture formed under the influence of the Uzbek language. Our great poet Alisher Navoi is invaluable in this language created masterpieces and surprised the world. All over the world today the visit of the delegations of our country in the countries, the achievements of our youth, Our anthem is sung in Uzbek in honor of the victories of our athletes.[4] We preserving our mother tongue, increasing its prestige, beautiful and to leave its purity as a legacy for generations, our contribution in introducing it to the world we must add. "If the language lives, the nation lives." If we are our own language If we spread the beauty and wealth to the world, our nation will be even brighter and our unity will be strong. Because as the Russian historian Shobelev said "You don't need to carry a weapon there to destroy a nation, its language, it is necessary to destroy its spirituality and literature, then the nation itself will disappear we can see how correct his opinion.[5]

Conclusion

Indeed, language is a great asset and priceless property of a nation. Because it is in the national language the spiritual and cultural life of the people, the outlook and thinking of the ancestors, rich scientific and creative heritage will be embodied. All the goodness in the world is the mother of God through the child's consciousness in the mother tongue. Independence, like national pride concepts are also closely related to the mother tongue. That's why Every people who strive to preserve the mother tongue of the nation and that it is his sacred duty to pass it on to the generations in a developed manner knows.
