Interactive teaching is the most active teaching method, enabling students to quickly make an impact, develop independent thinking, work on their own, develop critical thinking, creativity, and skills such as analysis and synthesis. Interactive lessons are carried out based on the students' communication with each other.

The methodology of learning the English language is used for the development of students, the enhancement of their skills, and the achievement of specific goals. Teachers need to understand and learn the methodology, stimulate and motivate students, and effectively carry out practical student tasks and assignments.
