INTRODUCTION

It is known that paronyms are both objective and subjective phenomena. Because words that are similar in form exist objectively in the language. At the moment some people use paronyms interchangeably. This is evidence of their low level of literacy, knowledge of the language, ignorance of various fields. Paronyms as both positive and negative phenomena can be evaluated. The positive thing is that these words are the vocabulary of the Uzbek language and is used for various methodological purposes, and their negativity is the word. It is determined by the occurrence of various defects related to selection. This and that paronyms are closely related to phonetic and pronounced words shows.

LITERATURE REVIEW AND METHODOLOGY

Paronyms - pronunciation, sound and morpheme structure is similar but lexical meanings different or partially close words. There are such words in the language the event of existence is called paronym. The problem of paronymy is in speech deliberate approximation of paronyms or not knowing their meaning and not distinguishing between them as a result of misapplication (speech error). Use of paronyms with existence, such issues are relevant speech culture and is studied by methodology. The term "paronyms" was first coined by Aristotle literally suggested Paronyms are often used in Russian linguistics belongs to the same word group, is the same root words are understood. [adresat — adresant (oluvchi — yuboruvchi), predstavitsya — prestavitsya (o‘zini tanitmoq — o‘lmoq)].

Uzbek language linguistics, they have not only the same root the words are similar in sound words with different roots are also Paronyms understood.(sharaf — sharob, afzal — abzal, tarif — ta’rif, enlik — ellik, sog‘liq — sovliq). Indiscriminate use of paronyms, confusing them is not a linguistic phenomenon the representatives of a particular language are the dictionary of that language enough standards is the result of not having it. Misuse of paronyms is usually occurs in unfamiliar words.

DISCUSSION AND RESULTS

Most of the unfamiliar words are terms is enough. After all, the pace of science and technology is fast as a result of growth with a specific language (new words entered into the Uzbek language) are in this language pronunciation with existing words will be close in terms, in the end new paronymic lines appear will be: tanbur — tambur, shitob — shtab, ta’rif — tarif, teri — tire.

In speech in the language to avoid ambiguity to be able to distinguish paronyms, their meanings it is necessary to be able to understand correctly. In fiction, journalism, of the text, speech in a public speech increase expressiveness and effectiveness a wide range of paronyms in order to is used. Deliberate paronyms misuse can cause a funny situation emits; such uses are the word in the game, askia, as well as speech characteristics of the characters necessary for disclosure.

Pay attention to the use of paronymic words related to giving and using them mistakes should be avoided. Paronyms to errors in speech related to the use of paronyms There are four main reasons why it is allowed:

1. Of a given word and even several the meanings of the words sufficiently not knowing
2. Activity that implies the word incompetence of the speaker in the field.
3. Banal illiteracy and vocabulary lack of
4. Reservations in speech.

Paronomasia - deliberate use of consonants a stylistic number that consists of using is a means of strengthening. Most of the time paronymy words paronomasia used to create. Distribution of paronyms in parts of speech very uneven. First of all, adjectives and adjectives combining adverbs paronyms loss of verb attributes turned into adjectives as a result (total 2500 unity). In second place are important paronyms (more than 1000 units) located. In third place are oral paronyms (400 more than one). Paronymic series are two (plural) or can be multi-room, some six to seven cases or more divided into many parts: elitist -elita, typo - obunani bekor qilish, yutish -yutish, suvli - suv - suv, ochlik - ro'za tutish - ochlik e'lon qilish, qonli - qonli - qonli -qonli - to'lash - to'lov - to'lov - to'lov, qimor - o'ynash - o'ynash - o'ynoqi - ko'pikli - o'yin.

CONCLUSION

Paronomasia is a good linguistic instinct and readers with a sense of humor intended to be appreciated by pun. Often it is not only the voice, but also is also based on semantic coherence. Paronomasia also students as a headline to attract attention is used. "O'zini o'zi boshqarish yoki o'zboshimchalikmi?" In a word, paronyms are thoughts modern as a means of concrete expression used with high frequency in the press we can come to the conclusion. Correct use of paronyms is preferred will do this in the periodic table above examples of publications confirm. This the phenomenon of paronymy is modern widely by researchers can be explained by the fact that it is being studied. Paronyms to the university curriculum included. Dictionaries and speech of paronymsparonyms. Publication of textbooks on culture from paronyms in the language of the press there is misuse.
