One of the main directions of economic reforms carried out in the context of the innovation development of the economy is the development of the service and service sector, which is considered a component of the MIL Li economy, further improving the quality of their life based on the maximum satisfaction of the population's demand for household services. Therefore, it is important to further develop the domestic service sector in our republic. Today, the development of these services increases the internal demand for many types of manufactured products and plays an important role in maintaining proportionality in the consumer market.

Currently, special importance is attached to the sustainable development of domestic service enterprises in the Republic, and the expansion of modern types of services, which are considered an important factor in increasing the effectiveness of their economic activities. "A total of 29,000 projects worth Rs 18 trillion have been implemented in the current year and the services sector has grown by 20%. Next year, it was established that $ 500 million will be allocated for the implementation of projects in the service sector" [13]. In this case, it is necessary to deepen the knowledge in such areas as the introduction of methods of effective organization of Mai Shi service processes, improving the quality and competitiveness of services, and determining the norms of social in the field of household services.

In the service sector, household service has a special place. This sector is one that develops mainly through entrepreneurship based on private property. Its importance is explained, first of all, by increasing the well-being of the population in exchange for the creation of new jobs, replenishing the market for services by increasing the range of services, satisfying the demand of the population for modern household services. To carry out such important measures, it is necessary to improve the methods and methods of organizing labor in domestic service enterprises and achieve efficiency.

Household service activities are a complex and multifaceted process. This process is ensured by the effective management of employees and resources of the enterprise, compliance with service standards, compliance of the services provided with consumer requirements. This requires improving the mechanisms of organizing labor in domestic service enterprises on a scientific basis and improving the efficiency of the use of resources.

The new economic relations arising on the basis of the economic reforms carried out in our republic are an important factor in achieving economic growth in the field, creating favorable opportunities for the development of the domestic service sector, developing the activities of domestic service enterprises and organizations corresponding to the innovative economy, increasing their position and competitiveness in national and international markets, as well as

In the research process, a dialectical and systematic approach to the study of the features and conditions of development of the field of household services, comparative analysis, statistical and dynamic approach and grouping methods were used.

The Republic consists of developing proposals on the specifics and conditions of the development of the household services sector, the role of the household services market in the services market, methods and means of regulating the provision of household services to the population determining social norms in the field of household services, increasing the competitiveness of household services in the globalization processes of its economy.
